Global Beer Market – Trends and Headlines

Global Beer Headlines

- 1 The global beer industry in recent years has been slowed by annual declines by the top two consuming nations, China and the U.S.
- 2 Traditional markets, such as North America, remained flat in recent years while Asia has declined.
- 3 While acquisition of SAB Miller by AB InBev in 2016 remains a highlight of recent years, the pace of consolidations in the beer industry continued, making the industry on a global level less fragmented.
- 4 With increased competition, tighter regulations and evolving consumer demographics, marketers are looking more towards innovation to gain incremental volume.
- 5 Declines in consumption can also be attributed to consumer preference toward craft beer and other beverage alcohol alternatives. Distilled spirits in particular have taken consumers away from the category.

African beer production saw declines in share by three of the top five leading countries; meanwhile, Ethiopia saw a sharp addition of six share points thanks to a two-and-a-half-fold production increase from 2014 to 2019
